

MOVING BEYOND

Mobility

For more than 170 years, Siemens has been an integral provider of infrastructure, electrification, and transportation solutions in the United States. From the first streetcar delivered to San Diego, Siemens Mobility has contributed to the power of connection, jobs, and investment to our American cities with eight manufacturing facilities, nearly 4,000 employees, and more than 2,000 suppliers across the country.

Our core business areas are rolling stock, rail automation and electrification, turnkey systems, intelligent traffic systems, as well as related services. For our customers, we are constantly innovating our portfolio.
